TwinLuxe Anti-Aging

Posted on November 27, 2012 by admin • 0 Comments

If you don't know much about TwinLuxe products, I'll let you know they have a wide variety of shaving products and skin care products mostly for men. There new SPF moisturizer is for both men, and women though. The SPF moisturizer is a mixture between what I think is a wrinkle cream, and sunblock (haha). I say that because the moisturizer gets rid of your unwanted wrinkles but also keeps you protected from the suns rays. The price is very reasonable for the quality of this product.

The experience I had with using this product was fairly well, and I can see why they were selected for Editors Choice for 2012. The moisturizing goes on from a cream like form, after rubbing it on your face (wash your hands and face first) it didn't seem to long before it had dried. I was happy to feel that there was no sticky or uncomfortable after feel, meaning it dried pretty well leaving my face feeling clean and refreshed. After using this product I would highly recommend it to anyone who doesn't mind spending a little more for a skin care product. The price for this product is about fifty dollars which if you have bought skin care products before you know this is not very expensive. If you can't take my word for it thought then like I said before, it was selected as 2012's editors choice award for a reason.

BUY IT:

It's an inexpensive product that will remove your wrinkles, protect you from the sun, and leave your face feeling nice and refreshed after it's first use.
